PREFACE

The third edition of the United States Catalog was published in 1912 and included a record of books in print January 1, 1912. The first supplement covers six years 1912 to 1917, inclusive, and the second supplement covers the three and one-half years January, 1918 to June, 1921. The present volume, continuing the series covers three years July, 1921 to June, 1924.

The record of new books included in the annuals of the Cumulative Book Index for the years ended June 1922 and 1923 and in the current issues for year ended June 1924 have been cumulated in this volume. All entries have been completed, revised and corrected in accordance with the latest information received.

According to the present plan the publication of the fourth edition of the United States Catalog will carry the sub-title "Books in print June 30, 1927" and will follow the next three-year supplement to the present United States Catalog as promptly as possible; it is hoped within a year.

This volume is delivered without further charge to subscribers to the Cumulative Book Index.

Abbreviations of Publishers' Names.

Abbreviations of publishers' names will be found in the Publishers' Directory at the end of the Index. This directory is revised with each number of the index and the latest issue should be consulted for addresses.

Names Used as Headings.

Entries are made preferably under the author's real name, but under the pseudonym, when the real name is not known or rarely used; under names of editors of compilations; under names of countries, states or cities which are treated as authors of their publications and of law reports; under names of societies or conventions, as authors of their transactions, journals, reports, and collections; under names of churches as authors of liturgies, hymn-books, catechisms, etc. (local churches, under name of place); under Bible when the book is a text or a paraphrase of any part of the Bible. Entries are made under the first word of the title, not an article, of anonymous works, compilations published under collective titles, periodicals, and year-books. Translations, abridgments, and indexes, are put under the original work.

Parts of Names Used as Headings.

English compound names are put under the first part. English surnames beginning with a prefix are put under the prefix; in French names, under the prefix excepting the preposition de and d'; in all other languages and in French names beginning with de or d', under the name following the prefix. British noblemen are put under their titles; bishops under their family names; members of royal families, canonized persons, and members of religious orders under their first names.

Author Entries.

Author entries include fuller title than under subject, also series, paging and Library of Congress card number.

Library of Congress Cards.

Numbers to be used in ordering the printed catalog cards of the Library of Congress are given at the end of the main (author) entry of each book. In many government publications, however, for which only subject entries are given, these numbers are attached to the subject entries. When there has been no card for a particular title but a general card for the series to which the title belongs, the series number is used and enclosed in curves. Where the card number is enclosed in [ ] it indicates that the card at Library of Congress is for a different edition of the book by a different publisher.

When a book is entered before the Library of Congress card number can be procured, it is reentered in a succeeding issue of the Index with the order number attached. It will be necessary for example, to look in the current issues of the Index for the numbers of some books that were published in the preceding year and cataloged in the Index for that year.

In ordering cards by these numbers, the numbers should be arranged in columns in increasing order of the numbers. The number of copies wanted should be indicated after the card numbers with a slanting line between, e. g., 5-2850/4. The price of cards ordered by numbers is 2½c. for the first copy and 1 3/10c. for each additional copy. If the order is by author and title, the price of the first card is 4c. For further information apply to the Card Section of the Library of Congress, Washington. D.C.

Mr. Anderson's approach is firmly founded on scientific principles tempered with a fine sympathy for the credo of the hobo fraternity. As a member of the Chicago council of social agencies, he made his first investigations. Since that time he has tried hobo life at first hand in every habitat of the casual worker. Many enticing chapters have resulted, not the least of which is one devoted to the prose and poetry of hobohemia. Here are unconscious reflections of the life of the road, its vicissitudes, and its "getting-by" philosophy.—Adv.

D x,204p il $2.25 (7s 6d) '24 Pitman
The experimenter who tries to find out why a dynamo or motor will not work properly is in the position of a doctor who examines a patient. The nature of the disease must be observed from the symptoms. In part I a number of common diseases are described together with the chief symptoms to which they give rise. Some important general considerations are explained as well. In part II the symptoms are dealt with first and diagnoses are made. The appropriate treatment is then suggested. The treatment throughout is elementary. The aim of this book is to encourage the experimenter to apply first principles in a systematic way.—Adv.

Scandinavian art. $8 '22 Am.-Scandinavian foundation

The only book available in English on Scandinavian art. It gives in readable, well ordered form, fully illustrated, and yet within the convenient compass of one volume, exactly what the American reader wishes to know about the art of Sweden, Denmark and Norway. It is not only an intensely interesting book, opening veins heretofore untouched in art history, but fills a reference need long felt by art students and critics, and will make a worthy addition to any library.—Adv.

This is a collection of 300 reproductions in full color of paintings by the world's greatest painters. It covers all the schools of painting from the early renaissance to the present—about seven centuries. Modern painters as well as the old masters are represented by a number of works in proportion to their importance in the history of art. Pictures in more than fifty galleries of Europe and America were selected with the assistance of Prof. John C. Van Dyke of Rutgers college. The reproductions are true to the color of the originals. On mounts 13 x 18 inches bearing annotations regarding the picture. Unattached in six portfolios. Three different bindings. This collection is now in use in universities, libraries, and schools throughout the country.—Adv.

Children's stories from French fairy tales; ed. by E. Vredenburg; il. by Mabel Lucie Attwell. O 143p $2.50 McKay
A wonderful selection—new even to experienced readers of fairy tales and told with such grace and power of the imagination that the adult reader finds himself slipping back into the phantasms of childhood. Suitable for all ages of youth. The workmanship is splendid, bound in beautiful blue cloth with gold imprinting. The illustrations by Mabel Lucie Attwell include a dozen page plates in full color and many illustrations in black and white, all done with her real artistic feeling of reality. This book gives the adult a strong wish to be a child again as nothing comparable to it was to be had by the children of a few years ago.—Adv.

King Arthur and the knights of the Round Table; il. by Arthur A. Dixon and ed. by E. Vredenburg. O 9-143p $2.50 McKay [6s 6d R. Tuck]
King Arthur, conqueror of Scandinavia, Gaul and Rome, the founder of the Round Table and the centre of a glorious band of brave men, lives again in this book by Doris Ashley. He shines forth more as a romantic hero surrounded by his knights of chivalry, however, than as a historic figure. No wonder that their brilliant deeds have been told over and over, for their charm appeals alike to men and women, boys and girls. The illustrations are done in a manner worthy of the great story. They include twelve splendid full page color plates and many pen and pencil drawings.—Adv.

Holland under Queen Wilhelmina; with a foreword by Edward W. Bok. O ix,321p il $3 (12s 6d) '23 Scribner 23-12156
Professor Barnouw is Queen Wilhelmina professor at Columbia university.
In the past quarter of a century Holland has taken great strides forward, under the leadership of that most commanding character, Queen Wilhelmina. The country faced grave political and economic crises during the World war, when her affairs were managed with extraordinary wisdom. The story of this period, and of the political events that preceded and followed it, is here told by one who is able to look behind the scenes of government, and to throw new light on the personality and character of Queen Wilhelmina.
Foreword by Edward W. Bok.—Adv.

(comp. and ed.) Financial incentives for employees and executives; introd. by Meyer Bloomfield. (Modern executive's lib.) 2v D 325;407p $4.80 '23 Wilson, H. W. 23-9520
The executive will find in these two volumes a wealth of material gathered from a large number of publications and reports, and by original investigations of the Bloomfield organization, covering over one thousand concerns and plans. The volume discusses types of wage systems, piece, day and week work, bonus systems, thrift plans, profit sharing, stock participation plans, mutual benefit associations and pension systems, and methods of compensation for retail stores, salesmen, office workers, foremen and executives. A selected bibliography is included.—Adv.

(comp. and ed.) Problems in personnel management; introd. by Meyer Bloomfield. (Modern executive's lib.) D xvi,553p $3.50 '23 Wilson, H. W. 23-13351
A compilation of practical demonstrations of the principles derived from a study of everyday problems in the field of personnel management by one who is in daily contact with the tasks confronting the industrial engineer.
The present volume gives little space to theories in personnel work—it confines itself to the practical realities which make the work what it is, and give it promise of further development.
Facts are presented in an unbiased way from the view point of both employer and employee, thus directing the reader to a more thoro understanding of the causes of the instability of labor and the ways of overcoming this economic waste.—Adv.

(Am. explorers ser.) 2v D xxvii,223;192p $3 '23 Allerton bk. (Pub. 1904 by A. S. Barnes & co.) A23-2048
This is the first time that the wonderful story of De Soto's career and the first exploration of the South has been presented in full from the original narratives. In addition to the classic histories of the Gentleman of Elvas and De Biedma, which have not been accessible to general readers in separate form, this volume contains the indispensable narrative of Ranjel, De Soto's secretary, which is now translated for the first time for this volume by Professor Bourne. It is a contemporary day by day record of singular importance.—Adv.

Gilbert Keith Chesterton; with an introd. by Arthur F. Thorn. O vi,120p $2 '22 Lippincott [7s 6d Chelsea pub. co.]

A comprehensive survey of the work of the most prolific and, in many senses, most interesting of contemporary writers. Chesterton has probably done more to stimulate and preserve the primitive sense of wonder and joy in human life than any other living writer. His witty paradoxes show a keen insight into human motives. His philosophy is that of the real, the true and the good. Qualities such as these have made him an almost universal favorite. This interpretation of his life and works by one of his kinsmen who knows him intimately should therefore prove exceptionally popular.—Adv.

Brewer's great dictionary will be found on every reference shelf worthy of the name, either public or private. It is absolutely essential and invaluable to all who read or write. For fifty years it has been standard. It is the necessary companion volume to the dictionary and the encyclopedia. What cannot be found in them can usually be found in Brewer. This new edition has been entirely re-set,—every entry scrutinized, where necessary re-written. A large mass of up-to-date facts and information has been added and there have been made alterations and additions necessitated by latter-day research and the changes brought about by the Great war.—Adv.

The record of the life and teaching of Jesus that has been preserved in the gospels of the New Testament is considered by Dr. Burton to be of particular value today for students of religion. To present this record in convenient form he has prepared this book which gives Jesus' own teaching, as well as, for comparison, that of his contemporaries. Here are presented for the first time source materials outside of the gospels, on Jewish literature of the New Testament period.—Adv.

Wild northland; being the story of a winter journey, with dogs, across northern North America. (Am. explorers ser.) D vii-xxii, 360p $1.50 '22 Allerton bk. (corr pub) A23-2049

Taking his route as a whole it stands for one of the great journeys on this continent, and the freshness of the country traversed and the interest of his descriptions have given his book a permanent value. The Wild Northland is that portion of North America where the region of forest terminates and that of the frozen barren lands commences. General Butler's solitary and lonely journey led him from Fort Garry on the Red River to the Athabasca lake, and thence up the Peace river and through a wild gorge in the Rockies to British Columbia, passing through scenery of marvelous grandeur. It is very rarely indeed that the restless wanderer can reproduce his impressions with the skill and power that are shown in the Wild Northland. It is the wide recognition of this fact which has placed this notable book among the classics.—Adv.

Christmas in poetry; carols and poems; chosen by a committee; first series. Q 48p pa 60c '22 Wilson, H. W. 23-3205
Printed on one side of the page only, in order to enable users who so desire, to cut, mount and file the contents.
The collection comprises not only many of the familiar and generally beloved Christmas poems, but others, more unusual, included because of their rare beauty.—Adv.

—Same; second series. Q 42p pa 60c '23 Wilson, H. W. 23-11985

Thanksgiving in poetry; poems, chosen by a committee of the association. Q 35p pa 60c '23 Wilson, H.W.
This compilation, like the two celebrating Christmas contains gems which will help young folks to "understand themselves and each other." Many of the poems are not those which are recited and sung on every Thanksgiving day, so made special appeal.
Being printed on one side of the sheet, poems can be cut out and distributed for use if desired.—Adv.
